

Joyce K (Perry) Bobo - After graduating high school, Joyce began working at Hocking Valley Bank and attended financial classes at Ohio University; she was trained and worked in several areas of the bank including head teller, loan officer and branch manager; she served three terms as Lee Township Fiscal Officer until moving back to the farm. In 2018, Joyce retired from OAPSE as an Administrative Assistant/Office Manager. Joyce is a lifelong resident of Athens County where she and her husband, Tom, reside on a third generational farm raising beef cattle, corn, wheat and soybeans...any spare time is spent raising a garden, landscaping, hosting guests at their Events Barn and Bed and Breakfast, spending time with grandchildren and attending their sporting events. Joyce was a charter member of Alexander's Future Foundation and a current member of the Athens-Meigs Farm Bureau. Joyce was instrumental in organizing and working with the Albany community residents in petitioning for the current traffic light on US 50/32 in Albany. Growing up on the farm during the construction of Lake Snowden and the Margaret's Creek Conservancy District Project, these remain significant matters of interest and concern to her. She and her husband have one daughter, Natalie, a son in law and four grandchildren. Joyce is vested in her family, friends and neighbors and maintains a close relationship with her community. Dedication and hard work are necessary elements in getting "things" done; matters such as the monitoring and maintaining of a safe water supply and protection of the soil are extremely important issues. Whether it is at a Local, State or Federal level, these matters affect everyone and need to be observed on a continual basis...to that end, she would be pleased to contribute as a member of the Athens SWCD Supervisory Board.
